DUTIES & OBLIGATIONS OF CERTIFIERS UNDER A CONTRACT

Synopsis

The Common Law system is one that evolves and changes to meet the development of society and the evolution of commerce and business. Consequently, what may seem to be the settled law today can be something else tomorrow. For many years consultants and certifiers have operated in the belief that they are safe from claims from anyone save for their employer. This has led to a sense of complacency when dealing with others, especially contractors. This seminar will serve as a timely reminder and update of what is expected of certifiers and how consultants who undertake a certifying role can navigate the legal risks and potential snares in an increasingly challenging environment and protect themselves from unnecessary liabilities.

Chairman : Lee Keng Seng

Lee Keng Seng is a Director (Quantity Surveying) at Surbana Jurong Consultant Pte Ltd and a member of Singapore Institute of Surveyors and Valuers. He holds a Bachelor of Science (Building), NUS, Graduate Diploma in Business Administration, SIM and also a Master degree in Construction Economics and Management from University College London, United Kingdom.

As a practitioner, Keng Seng has over 25 years experience, in various roles and capacities for developers, consultants and contractor, in the areas of cost and contracts management for development and construction projects of different types, size and complexities. He leads and supervises QS teams in the provision of multi-disciplinary design and QS consultancy services. In addition, he has also undertaken and been responsible for various roles in feasibility studies, design management, procurement management, project management and facilities management for projects of different nature and scale.

Keng Seng has also worked on overseas projects where he had stints in India and Vietnam and is currently involved in projects in Myanmar and Indonesia.

Speaker : Derek Loh, MA(Cantab)

Since commencing practice, Derek has focused on the area of construction, engineering and infrastructure law. His experience in construction and engineering is extensive and encompasses almost the entire spectrum of construction legal practice, ranging from drafting of construction contracts and advising on financing structures in relation thereto, to dispute resolution, litigation and arbitrations in construction projects (including complex petrochemical plant projects). He has acted for multiple, international contractors and employers.

His projects and infrastructure work has seen him advise on and undertake drafting work for complex civil engineering contracts such as power plants, refinery plants and subway rail systems and road networks both within Singapore and regionally. He has worked on practically all variants of construction contracts and is familiar with most international construction forms.

His work has a multi-jurisdictional aspect and Derek has advised and represented clients in relation to construction and civil engineering projects and transactions in Hong Kong, Taiwan, India, Pakistan, Sri Lanka, Nepal, Philippines, Myanmar, Vietnam, Malaysia, Brunei, Australia and the Republic of Palau.
