

Invitation to Seminar - Building A Nation, Tomorrow, 31 July 2014

The seminar is organised by The Business Times in collaboration with Singapore Institute of Building Limited. It is supported by Hitachi.

A world class city is at its crossroads. Besides building efficient infrastructure for housing, transport and industry, much effort has also been invested to transform our Garden City into a City in a Garden - with a growing population. How can a nation with limited resources continue to have world class infrastructure without too much trade-offs in maintaining a sustainable environment and ensuring a high quality of life?

Experts from the public and private sectors will discuss the challenges and offer possible innovative solutions on how to become a smart and liveable city nation in the near future.

Keynote address by Dr Liu Thai Ker, often described as the master planner of urban Singapore. He will tell the Singapore Urban Story that took over three decades to develop and challenge planners to build a new story for the next three.

Panel Discussion: Building a Nation: Tomorrow Challenges and Possibilities for a Liveable City Nation

Panellists

Public sector: Jurong International, LTA, Surbana, URA

Private sector: City Development and Ong & Ong (subject to confirmation)

Moderator: Professor Chiew Sing Ping, NTU's School of Civil and Environmental Engineering

An excellent opportunity for those in the building and sustainability sector to tap into this stimulating forum and to preview the possible future urban landscape of Singapore.

Date: 31 July 2014 (Thursday)

Time: 2.15 pm to 5 pm

Venue: Hotel Intercontinental Singapore, 80 Middle Road (Singapore 188996)

Limited seats: There are 60 complimentary seats and distribution are on a first come first served basis. To register, kindly email this invitation to vanchan@sph.com.sg by 23 July 2014.