

BUILDING MAINTENANCE COURSE -

Choice of Building Materials

Dates : 14th September 2016 (Wednesday)

Time : 2.00pm to 5.00pm

SISV Training Centre 110 Middle Road #09-00 Chiat Hong Building Singapore 188968

SYNOPSIS

This seminar will examine the characteristics of common building materials. The purpose is to advise on the proper selection of such materials for different parts of the buildings. It will help practitioners to better understand and propose suitable materials for repairs and maintenance of buildings.

OBJECTIVES

Property managers and managing agents are often confronted with building defects that arise particularly with respect to old buildings and those not constructed in a good workmanship manner. These series of lectures are to update practitioners on how to identify them and take the necessary steps to rectify them or appoint qualified building surveyors to deal with the technical matters. Through these lectures, it is hoped that managing agents of condominiums and other practitioners are better advised on how to deal with problems arising from such defects and failures.
